CREMATORIA NEWS

Plans to build a new crematorium and dining hall on the existing grounds of the Anoopam Mission, Swaminarayan Hindu Temple, in Denham, will not be going ahead having been rejected by the South Buckinghamshire Area Planning Committee. Committee members went back and forth for almost two hours on the “very difficult application”. But they determined the temple’s plans would constitute an “inappropriate development” resulting in “loss of openness and encroachment into the Green Belt” – and that the “very special circumstances” presented by the applicant did not outweigh potential harms to the surrounding area. To read more on the Committee's decision, read the Bucks Free Press article.

Plans to build a new crematorium in Heaton have been approved by Bradford Council - but it will be up to the Government to make the final decision as to whether it goes ahead. Members of Bradford Council's Regulatory and Appeals Committee approved the plans at a meeting this morning, and heard from some of the numerous objectors to the development. Although the committee approved the plans it will still have to go to the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government due to the application being on Green Belt land. It will be up to him to decide whether to "call in" the decision or allow it to proceed. You can read more on the Telegraph & Argus website.

Corby is one step closer to having its own crematorium after early plans for a state-of-the-art facility went on show. Currently those in the town and its surrounding villages who say their final goodbyes at a cremation service have to travel to Kettering or further afield. But that could soon change after Dignity Funerals - who operate 46 crematoria in the UK including at Milton Malsor near Northampton - outlined their vision for a new site just outside Corby. A spokesman for Dignity said: "We believe there is a requirement for a crematorium in the area and that the land is suitable for development. If approved, this development would provide a crematorium within a 30 minute drive for more than 19,000 residents." You can read more details on the consultation on the Northamptonshire Telegraph website.

CREMATORIA NEWS

Plans for the development of a new crematorium on land off Byers Lane, South Godstone have been refused by Tandridge District Council's Planning Committee. In refusing the application by Southern Co-operative Properties, the Council confirmed that the proposal would 'constitute inappropriate development in the Green Belt causing significant harm to the openness and visual amenities of the Green Belt. No very special circumstances exist to clearly outweigh the harm by reasons of inappropriateness and other identified harm'. You can read the decision notice on the Tandridge District Council website.

Huntingdon's pioneering crematorium and cemetery has moved a step closer after its entrance gates and fencing were granted planning permission. Work is already under way on the £7m Huntingdon Town Council scheme which is building the crematorium at Sapley Road, Kings Ripton. The scheme includes a range of green technologies, including the first all-electric carbon neutral cremator, the recycling of waste heat into the depot, rainwater harvesting, solar panels and composting of plant materials. Huntingdonshire District Council has now given the go-ahead to a planning application for the entrance gate to the site and estate fencing. Read more on this development on the Hunts Post website.

Campaigners opposed to proposals for a new crematorium in the leafy northern reaches of Surrey say it will erode the green gap with London and result in the loss of treasured countryside. Mercia Crematoria expects to submit a planning application for a Green Belt site in Farleigh, near Warlingham, to Tandridge District Council within the next month. It is the latest to join the race to build a new crematorium in Tandridge. Two separate plans – one near Oxted and another near Blindley Heath – were put forward earlier this year (see article above). To read more on this proposal, please read the Surrey Live article.

CREMATORIA NEWS

Work on constructing Hambleton's state-of-the-art crematorium is expected to begin in November. The District Council project will see the new multi million pound facility built on the edge of Thirsk. The facility will feature an electric cremator to reduce emissions and the area's carbon footprint. "Our new crematorium will offer state of the art facilities combined with more traditional aspects," said Council leader, Councillor Mark Robson. You can read more on this development on the Hambleton Today website.

A PIONEERING 'state-of-the-art' crematorium fuelled by almost 100 per cent green electricity is set to open its doors in Oxfordshire. Set to open on Monday, October 19, North Oxfordshire Crematorium and Memorial Park will feature a brand-new state-of-the-art chapel with seating for more than 130 people. Memoria's business development director Jamieson Hodgson explained: "North Oxfordshire Memorial Park will be introducing significant new innovations to respond to the latest requirements that families are requesting.". You can read more on the opening of the new crematorium in the Oxford Mail article.

A new £5 million crematorium which will offer state-of-the-art services is taking shape in Staffordshire. The 12-acre site, in Heath Hayes, Cannock, which will be run by Horizon Cremation, is set on an old open coal mine workings which were filled in during the 1970s, said Stephen Byfield, the company's director. Outlining the benefits of the new crematorium, Stephen Byfield, Horizon's director, said: "It will be close to people where they live and by far will have the best facilities of existing crematoriums in the area."

You can read more on the progress of this new development, on the Express and Star website.

NEWS REVIEW

GOVERNMENT NEWS

The Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government has issued non-statutory guidance for local authorities in England and Wales on public health funerals. The Ministry commented: 'While local differences mean that not all sections will apply to all local authorities, it is important that all arrangements for public health funerals are delivered respectfully and with care.' You can read the guidance on the GOV.UK website.

SCOTTISH NEWS

Scotland's Inspector of Cremation, Robert Swanson, has published his latest annual report for the year ended 31 March 2020. During the course of the past year the Inspector carried out an inspection of all 31 crematoria. Physical visits to crematoria were suspended in March 2020 due to the COVID-19 pandemic and for the remainder of the period, the Inspector continued to liaise remotely with staff and other stakeholders. You can read the report on the Scottish Government's website.

Scottish Government has issued an update to remind funeral directors that the cremation application supplementary form, introduced in April as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, continues to be an option, but should only be used where completely necessary. The supplementary form is not intended to be the default position for all applications. You can read the update on the Scottish Government's website.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Cremation in Lithuania, a predominantly Roman Catholic country, is becoming more acceptable to change-wary Lithuanians. K2 LT, the operator of Lithuania's only crematorium in Kedainiai in central Lithuania said it plans to invest up to €2m into its expansion. Almost 4,000 cremations were carried out in the first half of this year, up 67% from last year. Lithuania's first-ever crematorium in Kedainiai has been operating since 2012. Until then, Lithuanians had to travel to Latvia and Poland for cremation services. You can read more on this development, on the BNE IntelliNews website.
